Dear Josh,

My sincere apologies to you for taking so long to acknowledge your letter which I note is dated October 27th. I am no longer in Winnipeg having taken up a new post here in Hamilton after a very profitable six months in England.

I hasten to write to you at this point, not because I have any information to send to you, but because I am grateful for your interest in the results of our study. During my stay in England and on the continent, I encountered nothing but opposition and disbelief.

I attempted to get the information about the anaesthesia from Winnipeg but since this seemed to create a number of problems, I asked that all my papers, records, etc., be sent to me here. They have only recently arrived and I have yet to sift through the innumerable piles of boxes.

I also tried to obtain the journal to which you refer (Acta Anesth. Scand., 1966) but so far have been unsuccessful. In other words, I have drawn a complete blank.

I shall write again as soon as I manage to get some order out of the chaos.

Very best regards.

Sincerely,

Irene A. Uchida
